Daniel Ghita will be fighting in the Grand Slam heavyweight tournament at GLORY 4 Tokyo on December 31, but before that, Ghita wants everyone to see his project with Gabi Cazan about how he fights for and supports the homeless and poor of Romania. Ghita wants to raise awareness for the support that these people need. Here's the description of the two-part video, including how you can help.

"Daniel Ghita is a famous kickboxer. In the ring he fights for pride, honor and glory. And to be the best in what he does! Outside the ring Daniel fights for those who cannot. He fights for the poor and homeless children in Romania. He fights for health care, clothes and a place to stay for the people who needed it the most! Daniel donates a lot of his fightmoney to this projects but that's not enough. And that's why he needs your help! Your help so that the children have something to live for! Daniel visits the orphan-houses on a regular base and he wants to make a change and a diffence together with the local people who helps this project. These volunteers take care with lots of love and goodwill, but they have many material needs as beds, kitchen stuff, bicycles, books of education, writing material and many more. This to integrate the children in the society and prepare them for their future.

Ways That You Can make a change

One obvious way is to make a donation, which will go straight to helping our project. It's an easy process and you can give whatever amount you want -- it all helps. Please donate and make a change for those who cannot fight for themselves!

You can make your donation on account:
