

Dzhabar Askerov, Alex Harris Win At Rumble Of The Kings

Written by Rian Scalia

Saturday, 17 November 2012 16:52 -

---

Rumble of the Kings' annual event took place yesterday in Linköping, Sweden, with a few notable match-ups.

In the main event, Alex Tobiasson Harris rebounded from his loss to Nieky Holzken at the GLORY First 16 in Stockholm on May 26, with a stoppage win over Madsua. The first round saw Harris get dumped to the canvas repeatedly from the clinch. After the first round, the fight was all Harris, who dropped Madsua numerous times until finally in the third round, a knee to the head sealed the deal and got Harris a KO win. Madsua just couldn't take what Harris was dishing out.

Dzhabar Askerov, Alex Harris Win At Rumble Of The Kings

Written by Rian Scalia

Saturday, 17 November 2012 16:52 -

---

Right before the main event, Dzhabar Askerov made a quick return to the ring after losing to Warren Stevelmans at GLORY 3 Rome on November 3. He took on fellow GLORY First 16 competitor Mohammed El Mir. Askerov was clearly superior over the course of the entire fight, bullying El Mir around the ring and landed big power shots to the head, body and legs. In the third round, El Mir got injured off a checked low kick, securing a TKO win for Askerov.